

Leading from Your Core

The most effective leaders know more than their business. They also know themselves. Amid the relentless demands of organizations today, too many get caught up in fire fighting without pausing to make sure that they are in top shape to fight the big blazes. Through this program leaders pause long enough to honestly take stock of what they bring to their roles in moving change forward so they can lead more capably and consistently.

As a result of participating in this workshop you will:

- Heighten your awareness of the demands of the 21st century leaders.
- Discover how your purpose, internal resources and core values guide your day-to-day leadership decisions, behaviors, and profoundly impact your performance.
- Increase your options and broaden your perspective in dealing with the complexity of change resulting in improved decision making abilities.
- Learn strategies to build greater leadership resilience and endurance.
- Boost your sense of empowerment and success as a leader.
